

Madhav Marathe, PhD, is the Director of the Network Dynamics and Simulation Science Laboratory at the Biocomplexity Institute of Virginia Tech and Professor of Computer Science at Virginia Tech. His research interests are in network science, computational social science, computational epidemiology, high performance computing, data science and policy informatics. He is the recipient of the Distinguished Copyright award for TRANSIMS software, Los Alamos National Laboratory's achievement award, a recipient of the University at Albany Distinguished Alumni Award and 2010 Award for Research Excellence, Virginia Bioinformatics Institute. He is the 2011 Inaugural George Michael Distinguished Scholar at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. He has published over 300 peer-reviewed articles and is a fellow of the IEEE, ACM and AAAS.

mmarathe@vbi.vt.edu